CONSTRUCTION WORK
BEGUN ON SEWER SYSTEM
AT MISSION BEACH

Extensive home building at Mission Beach is expected to take fresh impetus from actual construction of the long-awaited sewer, actual work having been begun this week under the largest single contract of the kind in the records of the city. The contract price totals nearly a quarter of a million dollars, and the system will serve every lot on the Mission Beach peninsula of nearly three miles' length between the Pacific and Mission bay.

Wonderful System

Plans for the system, of a unique character, were prepared by engineers employed by the Mission Beach company in an effort to save time and because of the company's desire to use only one outlet for the whole system. The adopted plans calls for collection throughout the peninsula, settlement in a huge septic tank near the southern end of the peninsula, and discharge 1200 feet out to sea.

"SAFETY FIRST" WEEK

Next week is going to be National Safety First Week. The campaign for safety first is being conducted by the National Automobile Club, and is sponsored by the San Diego Association of Insurance Agents. It is the first concerted attempt to get people to be careful that has ever been made by any association or club.

Every one, drivers of automobiles, pedestrians, men, women or children, riders of bicycles and motorcycles and the motormen, firemen and policemen, all are asked to co-operate to try to make San Diego the safest place in the United States for the week beginning September 29, and ending October 6.

The co-operation of the fire and police departments has already been procured, and Chief Patrick has declared he will instruct his men to do everything in their power to spread the doctrine of safety first with the public.

BIG BEACH BLAZE

DESTROYS HOUSE BUILT BY PLASTERER BUTLER

The square, solidly built two-story house, almost completed by the well known plasterer, W. E. Butler, located on top of the ridge at Santa Barbara street and Saratoga avenue, was totally destroyed by fire shortly after 10 o'clock last night. The red-dened heavens and the great pillar of flame arising from the burning of the well-seasoned wood, attracted hundreds of spectators from the city. The big blaze atop the crest was readily seen from miles around.

The origin of the fire is unknown, and in its unfinished condition, the building is said to have been without insurance.

An explosion during the fire is thought to have been caused by the burning of an automobile stored in the basement of the building.

'Truth---Shall Rise Again'

SOME POINTED FACTS

ABOUT POINT LOMA "HI"

NOW BEING BUILT

It is expected that the lower floor of the new Point Loma High School will be ready for occupancy early in February next. Its opening will admit upwards of 200 children, who are now attending the Point Loma, Loma Portal and Ocean Beach elementary schools, and who have been denied the privilege of attending the high school. The same condition exists with the children of Mission Beach and Pacific Beach, to some extent.

Eight Hundred Students

According to the original plan of the Board of Education, it is proposed to make First street and Broadway a dividing line and all children in the congested district from there to the bay, will be admitted to the Point Loma High School, making a total of approximately eight hundred students, with available class room upon the partial opening in February. This will tend to relieve the other schools. In this connection, it is a noteworthy fact that San Diego is the only city of its size in California with only one senior high school.

POINT LOMA IN

THE OLD "HERALD"

There was at least one other hotel at the Playa at that time, as evidenced by the following notice under date of October 16, 1851:

"$30 Reward. The proprietor of the New Orleans Hotel at the Playa will pay the above reward to any person or persons who will give him such information as will lead to the detection of the party who committed the recent robbery on his premises."

And under the same date Ames again comments on the fastest boat in the world:

"Steamer Pacific"

We understand this boat passed up by this port yesterday morning while the Tennessee was landing the mail at the Playa and we will bet a 'huge watermelon' that the latter boat gets to San Francisco first."

The following inserted about the middle of November, suggests the approach of Thanksgiving Day in a land many weeks away from New England turkey:

"Sportsmen, Attention!"

The Bay is now literally covered with game of all kinds in the greatest abundance. Wild Geese, Ducks, Curlew, Snipe, etc., are as thick as red-headed girls in Chicago. Rub up your horse-pistols and other death-dealing instruments and be after them—not the red-headed girls but the game on our Bay."

There have been but few periods in the history of San Diego, of the port, and of Point Loma when soldiers have not been stationed hereabouts. The present military flavor of the city is not at all new, but dates back to Spanish times. The following playful remark yields a bit of sober history:

Nov. 20, 1851: "Until within a few days the public depot located in this city has been protected by Capt. Davidson's company of Infantry now stationed at the Playa. The reasons influencing their withdrawal we do not pretend to understand but in their absence some sort of a vigilance committee will have to be organized to protect Uncle Sam's committee and other committees from interested civic organizations that it would build school houses and class rooms FIRST, in order to take care of the urgent needs for seating capacity of the San Diego school children before any auditorium could be built at the high school with the bond money as pro rated.

And this is just what the Board is doing, although it seems that the C. of C. committee has ceased to function in the way of working with the school board on the expenditure of the bond money.

"DESPERATELY NEEDED," as the auditorium in the high school may be claimed, it is of interest to note that the Point Loma "Hi," as it will stand upon the completion of the present contract, will not be a complete school in any sense. There will be no auditorium, no domestic science room, no vocational shops, no laboratories and the entire second floor will be unfinished inside. It is estimated that it will cost approximately $100,000 to complete these necessary additions.

With the opening of the Point Loma "Hi," the dangers attending street car transfers in the congested districts of the city will be wholly eliminated. School children will be transported directly on the O. B. cars and busses to the school when traffic is at a minimum and less hazardous.

Oil Outlook In This Section Very Promising

GENERAL PETROLEUM CO.

TO DRILL OIL WELLS

ON MOUNT SOLEDAD

Heman C. Cooke, editor of the "Mining and Oil News," states that a representative of the General Petroleum Company is in San Diego, and that matters have been successfully arranged for that company to drill its first well on Mount Soledad, the big hill in Pacific Beach just east of La Jolla. It is said that the General Petroleum company, aside from the lease on the pueblo lands, has leases on a number of pieces of privately owned land in the beach section. Its total holdings are said to amount to about 1000 acres.

DON'T FORGET THE P. T. A.

NEXT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

The first regular meeting of the Ocean Beach P. T. A. will be held in the seventh grade room Friday, October 3, at 3:15 p. m.

The topic of the program is, "The Health of the Child Is the Power of the Nation."

Plans are being made for a very helpful course of study to consider the problems of child life at home and at school.

It is hoped that every mother who can possibly do so will attend the meetings this year. They are held the first Friday of each month.

PETITION PRESENTED

FOR SECURING GROUNDS AND SUITABLE BUILDING

A petition signed by nearly one hundred residents of Mission Beach has been presented by Harry K. Turner to the Board of Education, asking that sufficient ground be obtained for building a school at Mission Beach and immediately provide for accommodation of children who now are attending schools at La Jolla, Pacific Beach or San Diego.

Mr. Turner outlined the fact that there are at Mission Beach more than seventy children between the ages of seven and fourteen who would attend school at Mission Beach if schools were conducted there. He suggested the renting of a suitable cottage and conducting classes there, but Superintendent of Schools Henry C. Johnson said that such a course would be impossible at this time.

The matter was referred for further conference as well as the feasibility of furnishing transportation for the present.

FORMER LIFE GUARD

GETS JAIL SENTENCE

ON LIQUOR CHARGE

Malcolm Jones, familiarly known as "Mickey" Jones, a former life-guard at Ocean Beach, was committed to the county jail for 200 days by Judge De Long last Saturday in default of a fine of $400 for violation of the Wright act.

The police state that they had numerous complaints of Jones' activity as a bootlegger, and his house was raided last week. At that time he and a woman in the house are said to have disposed of several gallons of what the police declare was synthetic gin, made of rubbing alcohol and juniper berries. He was found guilty of the illegal possession of intoxicants.

When the well known Shields isn't swimming he is busy writing insurance for the Metropolitan Life Company.

NEW BALL DIAMOND

SECURED ON MUIR AVENUE

NEAR FROUDE STREET

Arrangements are being perfected for preparing suitable grounds for a fine baseball diamond on the large plot of ground adjoining the Ocean Beach Lumber yard on Muir avenue, between Ebers and Froude streets. The brush is being cleared from the lots, which will be rolled and watered, and a few trees in the outfield will be removed.

Several meetings have been held recently by beach baseball enthusiasts, and L. A. Shaffer, manager of the former Ocean Beach team, has left no stone unturned for the continuance of local interest in the game and it is announced that Earl Haas, proprietor of the O. B. Feed, Fuel and Express, has been appointed secretary-treasurer of the reorganized baseball club.

Funds are needed for getting the new grounds in shape as well as for the proper organization of a good team. It has been decided to have a large score-board erected on the diamond and special spaces for advertising will be sold at a nominal monthly rate. All local merchants and others will be solicited for the display of their business announcements and thus insure a guarantee fund for the club.

It is hoped to have everything in readiness for the opening of the beach ball season on the first Sunday in October.

The BROWN MOUSE

By HERBERT QUICK

(Copyright by The Bobbe-Merrill Company)

Once inside, Jennie felt a queer return of her old aversion to Jim's methods—the aversion which had caused her to criticize him so sharply on the occasion of her first visit. The reason for the return of the feeling lay in the fact that the work going on was the same sort, but of a more intense character. It was so utterly unlike a school as Jennie understood the word, that she glanced back at the group of educators with a little blush. The school was in a sort of uproar. Not that uproar of boredom and mischief of which most of us have familiar memories, but a sort of eager uproar, in which every child was intensely interested in the same thing; and did little rustling things because of this interest; something like the hum at a football game or a dog-fight.

On one side of the desk stood Jim Irwin, and facing him was a smooth stranger of the old-fashioned lightning-rod-agent type—the shallower and laxer sort of salesman of the kind whose sole business is to get signatures on the dotted line, and let some one else do the rest. In short, he was a "closer."

Standing back of him in evident distress was Mr. Cornelius Bonner, and grouped about were Columbus Brown, B. B. Hamm, Ezra Bronson, A. B. Talcott and two or three others from outside the Woodruff district. With envelopes in their hands and the light of battle in their eyes stood Newton Bronson, Raymond Simms, Bettina Hansen, Mary Smith and Angie Talcott, the boys filled with delight, the girls rather frightened at being engaged in something like a debate with the salesman.

As the latest-coming visitors moved forward, they heard the schoolmaster finishing his passage at arms with the salesman.

"You should not feel exasperated at us, Mr. Carmichael," said he in tones of the most complete respect, "for what our figures show. You are unfortunate in the business proposition you offer this community. That is all. Even these children have the facts to prove that the creamery outfit you offer is not worth within two thousand dollars of what you ask for it, and that it is very doubtful if it is the sort of outfit we should need."

"I'll bet you a thousand dollars—" began Carmichael hotly, when Jim waved him down.

"Not with me," said Jim. "Your friend, Mr. Bonner, there, knows what chance there is for you to bet even a thousand cents with me. Besides, we know our facts, in this school. We've been working on them for a long time."

"Bet your life we have!" interpolated Newton Bronson.

"Before we finish," said Jim, "I want to thank you gentlemen for bringing

"I'll Bet You a Thousand Dollars," Cried Carmichael Hotly.

In Mr. Carmichael. We have been reading up on the literature of the creamery promoter, and it is a very fine thing to have one in the flesh with whom to—to demonstrate, if Mr. Carmichael will allow me to say so."

Carmichael looked at Bonner, made an expressive motion with his head toward the door, and turned as if to leave.

"Well," said he, "I can do plenty of business with real men. If you want to make the deal I offer you, and I can show you from the statistics I've got at the hotel that it's a special deal just to get started in this part of the state, and carries a thousand dollars of cut in price to you—let's leave these children and this be school-master and get something done."

EDITORIAL

WHY PICK ON

SAN DIEGO'S BEACHES

AND POINT LOMA?

Every now and then some erratic and inconsiderate newspaper contributor goes out of his or her way to distort facts and cast unwarranted aspersions upon various affairs concerning the beach districts generally, and Ocean Beach in particular.

Why is this thus?
The animus in each article is quite easily discernible.

If it isn't "Shotguns and Rioting," in big, fat black type on the front page, it's a screamer over some special story with only the unpainted side of the picture presented.

Anything for derogation and everything for disparagement seems to be the motto of these unethical writers.

We object to their unfairness!
With a little more reportorial industry and a slight addition of editorial perspicacity, those things directly affecting the progress of the beach district and the Point Loma section could be properly portrayed in their true light and in justice to all concerned.

PAVEMENT LINES

TO MARK SCHOOL ZONES

WILL BE YELLOW

Abandoning signs which have been used to warn motorists in front of the Roosevelt junior and the senior high school to drive slowly, the Board of Education is having the paved thoroughfares intersecting in front of those schools distinguished by arrows and lines boldly painted in yellow to indicate the school zone.

In a published list of other school thoroughfares expected to be treated in the same manner, it is noted that the Ocean Beach school is omitted.

Why this oversight, Messrs. School Board?

De Foe street is just as dangerous (if not more so) as the rest of 'em!
Please safeguard the lives of the beach school children, if some yellow paint will help to do it.

KEEPING WELL

THE FLAPPER'S WAIST

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

MY SECRETARY came in with a perplexed look on her face. "What are you worrying about?" I asked.

"I'm not worrying about anything," she answered. "I'm wondering whether my daughters are different from what I was at their age or whether they only seem different to me."

I knew there was some kind of a story back of this, so I said, "Well, go ahead and tell me what started it." "Yesterday," she said, "I was repacking some old trunks. Among other things I found my wedding dress. When I was married, some 20 years ago, I was an unusually strong and well developed girl. My wedding dress was made according to the fashion of that day—tight waist (although I didn't consider it tight), high neck, long sleeves, trailing skirt and all the earmarks of the fashionable gown of that day. Among other comfortable (?) features the waist was "stayed" with whalebones, an inch apart, from armpits to waist. A tight skirtband encircled the 18-inch waist, of which I was very proud.

"My youngest daughter wanted to see how I'll look in mother's wedding gown." She isn't like her mother. She is of the distinctly small type of girl. We regard her as fragile. When she got into my dress the skirt trailed on the floor. When I tried to hook it down the back it was six inches too small and when I tried to fasten that waistband and child shrieked."

I said, "You ought to thank God that you have more sense than your mother had. Your child has grown up with a natural waist, with plenty of room for her lungs and her heart and her abdominal organs. She hasn't squeezed herself into the hour-glass figure that was fashionable in your day. She has developed her muscles so that her body doesn't need an artificial support. She has worn clothes that fitted her body rather than forced her body into ridiculous garments. She has a better heart, more lung expansion, better muscles and a stronger body than you had when you were her age."

Moral: Don't worry about the present-day flapper with her bobbed hair, one-piece dress, comfortable clothes and rolled hose. She doesn't look like her grandmother, but she probably could beat the old lady in a foot race, swimming match, tennis game or cross-country hike. She can cook and sew and sweep and clean house all the better for her strong and well developed body and her sensible way of dressing.

The present generation isn't going to the dogs just because it wears different clothes from its predecessors. (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

A GREAT MENACE

By M. A. Traylor, Chairman, Economic Policy Commission, American Bankers Association

A cross section of American thought today, as reflected in private conversation, public addresses and through our multitude of avenues of thought distribution, would reveal perhaps as great a confusion of ideas and purposes as confounded the assembled throng at Babylon. It is not high time that the bankers demand the preservation and practice of those sound fundamental principles which are so absolutely essential to the welfare of the nation? Bankers and business men of the country have little right to complain of the prevalence of unsound economic theories, of radical political tendencies and paralyzingly foolish legislation, so long as they maintain the silent or defensive attitude which has characterized them in the past.

A few days ago I heard a gentleman, supposedly well versed in politics, say that if the charter of the Federal Reserve System were up for renewal or extension at the present time, he doubted very much if Congress would prolong the life of the System, and certainly if it did would only do so after such amendments and modifications as would destroy the basic principles underlying the present structure.

A real menace is involved in this suggestion, but I wonder how much we have done or will do to acquaint the voting public, who will eventually elect the Congress who will pass upon this proposition, with the actual facts of the case. Notwithstanding mistakes that have been made in the administration of the System, most of the opposition to it is based not upon facts but upon twisted stories and the absolute falsehoods of the office-seeker, who has found it easy and popular to attack and blame the System for all the ills, alleged and imagined, which may affect any particular group.

LEGLESS WAR VET STRANGLES WIFE WITH HIS SCARF

Slayer Called Relatives on Phone and Confessed Crime to Police.

Montreal, Que.—"I've just killed my wife. Come down and see her." In these few words, spoken without the slightest trace of agitation at 4 o'clock in the morning, Delphis Godard revealed to his father and his brother in their home at No. 188 Dorlon street, the tragedy that had a few moments before been enacted in the dwelling below them.

The recipients of this message did not accept the invitation, but notified the police. When Lieutenant Lefebvre, with Constables Cabana and Rousseau, arrived at Godard's dwelling, they found that nineteen-year-old Mrs. Godard had been strangled to death with a silk scarf. Godard is a former service man who lost both legs during the war.

Confesses to Police.

The front door was locked when the officers arrived and they rang the door bell. After a short wait, Godard came to the door and Lieutenant Lefebvre asked him if he had sent for the police. "No," said Godard, "but this is the house. Come right in." He led the officers inside and as they started toward the rear of the house he stopped them and pointed to a door at the right of the entrance. "She's in there," he said.

Without being questioned by the officers he volunteered the information that he had killed his wife with his scarf, and when the officers examined the body they found it was cold.

Examination of the body by the morgue officials showed that the scarf had been tied tightly around the woman's neck and that it had been pulled so as to strangle her. There was a black ring around her neck. It is the opinion of the police that the woman was asleep when she was attacked. When the body was found it was lying beside the bed with the bed sheet over it. Only an undershirt clad the body.

Information obtained by the police was that the couple had been married since May, and that they had not been very happy.

Lost Both Legs in War.

Godard is a returned soldier, thirty years of age, who, during the war, having lost both his legs, wears artificial limbs and walks with the aid of a cane. This led the police to believe that Mrs. Godard must have been attacked in her bed, as otherwise she could easily have pushed her assailant away.

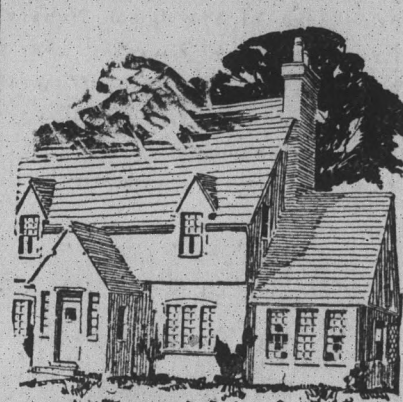

Of Godard's war record the police were unable to learn a great deal. They found four military medals in a frame in the house, but they could not learn for what they were awarded.
